The Questions Your Elementary Child is Asking

By Kristen Ivy & Reggie Joiner

Parenting is hard. Just when you think you understand your child, everything changes. And then you have to get re-acquainted and figure out a new way to parent. It might be helpful to know that every kid at every phase is asking a unique and fundamental question. How you answer that question for your child will communicate the one thing they need most: LOVE.

Second - Third Graders

In second and third grade, kids are becoming increasingly self-aware, and they begin to compare themselves to others. They are asking this fundamental question:

“DO I HAVE WHAT IT TAKES?”

They want to know if they have what it takes to make the team, to get the grade, and to measure up to their own (and your) standards.

Early Childhood

This month we are going to do a lot of counting-1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7- pausing to learn what God made on each day of creation. Through our fun and exciting activities and stories we want our preschoolers and kinders to learn God made everything, and IT IS GOOD!

KidsPoint & Ignite

Throughout history God has proven His faithfulness to us, especially in keeping His promise to send Jesus to save us. God will continue to be dependable. The Bible is filled with examples of people who knew first hand what it means to trust God. This month we will focus on two of them: Jacob and Joesph. Through their stories, we'll discover how we can trust Him no matter what we face.

In these early years of elementary school, you can give your child the love they need when you do one thing:

ENGAGE their interests.

- When you engage their interests you...
- communicate that their ideas have value,
- show curiosity about their activities,
- establish that their efforts are significant,
- demonstrate that they are worth loving,
- help them push through set-backs.

You are probably doing more than you realize to show your child just how much you love them. Make a list of the way you already show up consistently to engage your child's interests.

Next month, we will focus on what question 4th-5th graders are asking...stay tuned!
